3. Options & additional information:

a. The specifications call for a Windows NT operating system. If you feel this is not the best operating system for your product, provide arguments for alternatives. Restrictions on alternatives are Windows 95 and Windows 98. Provide any cost differences (+/-) for proposed alternatives.

b. The specifications ask for a minimum of 64 MB of RAM, expandable to 128 MB. Outline the configuration of the memory as installed in the proposed unit and additional memory slots available (i.e. If there are four slots available, we do not want them all occupied with 16 MB chips. This defeats the purpose of expansion capability.)

c. Provide additional pricing options for an upgrade of the microprocessor to include faster clock speeds on the Pentium II at 300 & 400 MHz clock speed options. Indicate if other options are available. Also include options to upgrade the cache memory capabilities.

d. Provide pricing and information on the typical mounting bracket/hardware recommended for the unit proposed (include detailed drawings of the product offered). The unit must be compatible with 1999 & 2000 Ford Crown Victoria police patrol vehicles, with airbags & bucket seats.

e. Indicate any proprietary replacements parts contained in the proposed product or any non-standard replacement parts that would be necessary to maintain these units.

f. Typical installation time for a complete install of one unit _____

g. Attach here a list of standard replacement parts, including manufacturer, part number and the cost of these replacement parts, if they are purchased from your firm.

h. Attach here a training outline, including the recommended number of man hours per individual, and detail on the topics to be covered. Outline train-the-trainer options available for user functionality. Identify additional training alternatives, including cost reductions, and any training/certification programs offered.

i. Attach here copies of financial statements for your firm covering the last two years of operation.
